

SPORT ETHICS CONFERENCE

April 6 -7, 2017 | University Park, PA

Please join the new Penn State Center for the Study of Sports in Society at our premiere annual conference. This year's theme is Sports Ethics, and we have assembled a distinguished group of scholars in sport philosophy to engage with Penn State faculty and leading sports industry experts in a discussion on the integration of ethics into sports organizations and practices. Penn State sport practitioners and administrators will raise issues and ethical concerns that they face in their day-to-day engagement in sport. To help navigate these issues and concerns in a more ethically sound manner, some of the world's leading sport ethicists will provide a critical analysis of them. The following are some of the topics that will be explored: athletes' role modeling, the pedagogical potential of sport participation, the environmental impact of sport events organization, and the commercialization of sport.
