Auburn University

- 2009: Organized a university-wide symposium on the documentary film Greensboro's Child.

This was a formal university event organized in conjunction with Auburn University's Multi-Cultural Center in which the director of Greensboro's Child, Andy Coon, was invited to campus to show his film and take part in a university-wide discussion on the legacy and role violence plays in U.S. society. I was responsible for coordinating Mr. Coon's visit, organizing the university panel (made up of four university faculty from other departments), chairing the session, and leading the university discussion. □
